33 Brand & Graphics Standards Q&A

"God has made of one blood all peoples of the earth."

Introduction

Branding—whether it is in written or visual form—is the art of creating a consistent, recognizable and unified "personality" or "voice" that conveys an organization's unique identity, focus and values.

The Berea College name, logo, color palette, messages and other elements contribute to its brand and are among its most valuable assets. Collectively and individually, they are recognized by the College's audiences and stakeholders as representations of the College, help communicate its unique identity and build its overall brand.

Key audiences are impacted by our messages every day–through internal communications (students and faculty/staff), external communications, the College website, its printed materials, social media, videos and other communications channels/vehicles. The name, logo and messaging help create a unique identity (or brand) for Berea College in the minds of various stakeholders. A well-defined brand creates and/or reinforces audiences' feelings about an organization and serves as a short-hand representation of the organization. Therefore, a well-defined brand is the most efficient means of creating an emotional response and communicating Berea College's values and mission to its audiences.

The Berea College name and logo are on business cards and stationery, printed materials, the website, many of the College's vehicles, buildings, etc. The logo, its colors and typefaces are symbols of Berea College, its mission, history and activities. Therefore, it is imperative that we continue to build and preserve the strength and integrity of the Berea College name, logo and branding elements by using them correctly.

The Berea College Brand & Graphics Standards Manual contains specific standards relating to the representation and use of the Berea College name, logo, branding elements and messaging. These specifications are to be followed wherever and whenever any element of the Berea College identity is used.

It is vital that all faculty, staff, students and others use the Berea College name, logo and branding elements properly and consistently. Uniformity in presentation will maximize the awareness of Berea College while protecting the College's logo and identity. Please refer to the standards in this manual whenever using the Berea College logo or brand elements. Such consistent application will create a uniform visual identity that effectively communicates the College's overall brand. These standards are mandatory for all uses across all mediums.

Basic branding elements reflected in this manual are available for download on the Berea College website (www.berea.edu/mc/graphic-style-guide/downloads); printed copies are also available from Berea College's Office of Marketing & Communications (MC). Basic branding elements include logos, PowerPoint templates, letterhead, website templates and other materials. More complex elements such as signage, promotional items, etc., should be discussed and coordinated with MC or Printing Services. In addition, if you have other questions or comments on the use of the Berea College name, logo, elements of its identity or about the proper use of any element described in the manual, please contact MC at mc@berea.edu or 859-985-3018.

Written Identity

The written portion of a brand identity is as important as the visual elements. The consistent use of a set of words and statements: a) builds better awareness of an organization in general, b) builds brand preference or positive opinions about the organization and c) develops long-term stakeholder interest/loyalty to the organization. Following the Berea College Mission Statement and the Great Commitments (key elements of the College's identity) are several tools that should be used on a regular and consistent basis in communications materials. These texts may not be altered.

The Great Commitments of Berea College

Berea College, founded by ardent abolitionists and radical reformers, continues today as an educational institution still firmly rooted in its historic purpose "to promote the cause of Christ." Adherence to the College's scriptural foundation, "God has made of one blood all peoples of the earth (Acts 17:26)," shapes the College's culture and programs so that students and staff alike can work toward both personal goals and a vision of a world shaped by Christian values, such as the power of love over hate, human dignity and equality, and peace with justice. This environment frees persons to be active learners, workers, and servers as members of the academic community and as citizens of the world. The Berea experience nurtures intellectual, physical, aesthetic, emotional, and spiritual potentials and with those the power to make meaningful commitments and translate them into action.

To achieve this purpose, Berea College commits itself

- To provide an educational opportunity for students of all races, primarily from Appalachia, who have great promise and limited economic resources.
- To offer a high-quality liberal arts education that engages students as they pursue their personal, academic, and professional goals.
- To stimulate understanding of the Christian faith and its many expressions and to emphasize the Christian ethic and the motive of service to others.
- To promote learning and serving in community through the student Labor Program, honoring the dignity and utility of all work, mental and manual, and taking pride in work well done.
- To assert the kinship of all people and to provide interracial education with a particular emphasis on understanding and equality among Blacks and whites as a foundation for building community among all peoples of the earth.
- To create a democratic community dedicated to education and gender equality.
- To maintain a residential campus and to encourage in all community members a way of life characterized by mindful and sustainable living, health and wellness, zest for learning, high personal standards, and a concern for the welfare of others.
- To engage Appalachian communities, families, and students in partnership for mutual learning, growth, and service.

First articulated in 1962, the Great Commitments represent the historic aims and purposes of Berea College since its founding in 1855. The Great Commitments were originally adopted by the General Faculty and the Board of Trustees in 1969; they were revised and similarly approved in 1993 and most recently in 2017.

Writing Style Guidelines

When writing and editing press releases, success stories, case studies or other editorial content for Berea College or any of its individual units, editorial staff (and all others) should follow the Associated Press (AP) writing style. Doing so offers unity of style, which helps to improve the College's brand image over time. An AP style guide/handbook is available through most book stores or online.

Written Identity

Boilerplate text is approved text that can be used in many ways to provide a description of the College. It is often used in press releases, reports, etc. If you have a need for boilerplate text, use the entire text and do not alter it.

Long Version for Most Applications

Berea College achieved national distinction as the first coeducational and interracial college in the South. With an emphasis on service to the people of Appalachia and Kentucky, Berea enrolls 1,450 students from 41 states and 76 countries. The College has a long-standing commitment to interracial education; here, people of different races seek to learn from and about each other, while also living together. Berea is among the most racially diverse private liberal arts colleges in the United States. The College admits only students whose families are unable to afford the high cost of tuition and awards each of them a Tuition Promise Scholarship, meaning no student pays for tuition. Berea's students excel in the College's supportive but demanding academic environment, and many are the first in their families to graduate from college. The College is one of nine federally recognized Work Colleges, and all students hold a position in which they work 10-12 hours per week. Washington Monthly magazine has consistently ranked Berea in the top five of Liberal Arts Colleges for its success in educating and graduating academically talented, low-income students who become service-oriented leaders in their professions and communities.

Located where the Bluegrass Region meets the Cumberland Mountains, the town of Berea (pop. 16,000) lies 30 miles south of Lexington and is approximately two hours from Cincinnati, Louisville, and Knoxville. More information about Berea College is available at www.berea.edu.

Berea College, in light of its mission in the tradition of impartial love and social equality, welcomes all people of the earth to learn and work here.

Short Version for Press Release and Social Media

Berea College, the first interracial and coeducational college in the South, focuses on learning, labor and service. The College admits only academically promising students with limited financial resources, primarily from Kentucky and Appalachia, although students come from 41 states and 76 countries. Every Berea student receives a Tuition Promise Scholarship, which means no Berea student pays for tuition. Berea is one of nine federally recognized Work Colleges, so students work 10 hours or more weekly, earning money for books, housing and meals. The College's motto, "God has made of one blood all peoples of the earth," speaks to its inclusive Christian character.

Formatting and Required Information on Printed Material

All printed material must be imprinted with a publication/design date in the following format: 2-digit month/4-digit year (i.e. "02/2016"). One-time material (posters for events, event programs, etc.) are not required to feature this imprint.

All material printed for external distribution should also be imprinted with a copyright designation (© Berea College).

Visual Identity

Logo Display

The logo is a graphical element that includes the combination of the Berea College typeface, full name of the institution and the College motto, “God has made of one blood all peoples of the earth.” Whenever possible, it is recommended that the full logo be used rather than elements of the logo.

Proper Use of the Berea College Logo

Every application of the Berea College brand identity should strengthen and reinforce the College’s image. The Berea College logo should be used with care and with the highest quality standards possible.

Use only Berea College-approved artwork. The brand elements in all their forms are the exclusive property of Berea College. There are three approved formats for the Berea College logo:

- The circular version, which is considered the primary format.
- The stacked version, which is considered a secondary format.
- The horizontal version, which is also considered a secondary format.

The stacked and horizontal versions of the logo should be used sparingly, primarily in cases where size and space restrictions prohibit the use of the primary circular logo format.

Logo/Wordmark Typography

The Berea College logo’s wordmark is set in a customized version of Jenson, combined by its original designer from Jenson Classico and Adobe Jenson Pro. Berea reserves the use of this customized version of Jenson for the Berea College logotype and official or special Berea College documents only, lending its unique, classical style more strongly to the College’s brand.

Logo "Level" System

Any logo intended to represent Berea College is the property of the College and must adhere to all guidelines here and elsewhere in the official Brand & Graphics Standards Manual. The three-level system addresses current logos and logos that will need to be revised or created in the future. Please refer to the guidelines below for proper use at all levels.

Contact the Office of Marketing & Communications to initiate design of any and all logos. Creation of new or altered logos is prohibited without written permission from the Associate Vice President for Marketing & Communications.

Level One

Level One brand symbols are the strongest visible symbols of the College. They are strong enough to identify Berea in the marketplace by themselves. These logos can be used non-commercially by anyone at the College. See PAGE 18 for rules regarding the College Seal.

Level Two

Level Two logos pair the words "Berea College" with a department or functional unit name in a graphic format. The importance of this approach is to provide a valuable navigation tool on the Berea College website and build unity across all College units. The unit name must be set in the typeface Proxima Nova, below the College logo, in a horizontal or "stacked" version (examples at right). These logos are created exclusively by MC and Printing Services. The services of these campus entities are available upon request.

Level Three

Level Three marks represent a broad group of diverse sub-brand organizations such as alumni groups, funded student clubs and organizations, or for special projects and externally facing programs.

Level Three logos preferably use Level One logos (brand symbols), brand typefaces (see PAGE 24) and the designated "Berea Blue" color in their design. If the design does not incorporate a brand symbol, then the words "Berea College" are required as part of the mark (see Level Three example, right). If, because of an agreement with other institutions, Berea College is not part of the group's official name, the words "Berea College" need to be used as part of the logo's design when appearing in Berea College promotional, communications or event materials.

Continued use of Level Three logos and marks created prior to April 2015 is generally permitted. Any exceptions will be identified and evaluated by the AVP for Marketing & Communications and/or a higher authority.

New Level Three logos are rare and require the approval of the AVP for Marketing & Communications. The AVP will consult with the Creative Director in evaluating proposals. Internally facing departmental and functional units do not qualify for a Level Three mark but may use a Level Two mark.

Visual Identity

Spacing

It is important that the logo is not crowded or boxed in by text or other elements, such as photographs. Allow sufficient spacing around all four sides of the logo graphic so the identity is clear and legible. In design terms, this is referred to as “clear space.” Examples below provide guidelines for specific spacing and margins.

Minimum Clear Area

For standard applications, allow 1/8” of clear space per 1” of horizontal logo space. (1”÷ 8 = 0.125”)

So if you are printing a logo 2” wide, the required clear space would be 2”÷ 8 = 0.25” or 1/4”

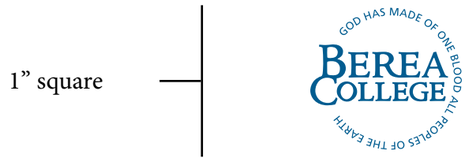

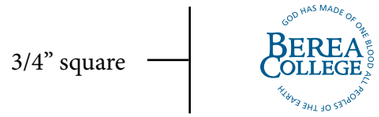

For special applications where graphic follows the curve of the logo:

Logo Scale Recommendations

Suggested logo size for most print and web publications is between 1” and 2” square. At a minumum, the logo must be printed at least 3/4” square.

Visual Identity

Dos and Don'ts

Using the official Berea College logo consistently will help perpetuate a sense of familiarity and respect for the Berea College identity. Please follow the guidelines below.

Do

- Use the official logo in approved Berea Blue (please refer to PAGE 22) whenever possible.
- For stationery and typical correspondence, print the logo on the preferred white stock (bright white, not ivory or "natural" backgrounds). Any exceptions must be reviewed and approved by MC or Printing Services.
- Maintain clear space around the logo as shown on PAGE 14.
- Include the logo in all off-campus communications for any department, program, center or club.
- Consult this Brand & Graphics Standards Manual when unsure of proper logo useage.
- If you cannot find the answer to your question in this Brand & Graphics Standards Manual, contact MC at 859-985-3018.
- Think about your reader or viewer when applying the official logo. For example, a blue logo on a black background will be difficult to read.
- Use the logo at a comfortable size (see PAGE 15). Resist the temptation to fill an entire space with the logo.
- Exercise the option to use an approved, alternate logo (see PAGES 13 AND 22) for small applications, athletics and merchandise.

Don't

Don't alter the color of the logo.

Don't stretch or distort the proportions of the logo.

Don't add a drop shadow to the logo.

Don't use the motto by itself.

Don't alter the color of the motto.

Don't alter the relationship of the word mark to the motto.

Don't recreate the logo. Digital files are available.

Don't rotate the logo.

Don't print the logo on patterned paper.

Don't apply any special, graphic effects to the logo.

Don't outline the logo.

Don't recreate the motto.

Official College Seal Policy

The Berea College Seal is reserved for official documents and selected uses approved by the Office of the President. The official Berea College Seal is distinct from the official Berea College logo. The college logo should serve as the predominant mark on any form of day-to-day college communications with internal and external audiences.

The intent of this policy is to preserve the use of the Berea College Seal as a distinct and dignified mark reserved for formal representation of the College.

Official documents that use the seal may include diplomas and graduation collateral (e.g. invitations, etc.), transcripts, legal documents, contracts and official reports such as the Berea College Strategic Plan.

At the discretion of the Office of the President, the Seal may also appear on products sold by the Berea College Visitor Center & Shoppe, the Berea College Bookstore or their affiliates. Examples of products include items such as cufflinks, lapel pins, plaques, etc.

These items may not:
- conflict with existing College policy or codes of conduct.
- promote the use of regulated goods and services (e.g. alcohol, gambling, etc.).
- include weaponry.

The Berea College Seal may not appear on:
- household items (e.g. cleaning implements, appliances, etc.).
- consumable items of any kind (e.g. packaging, food items, beverages etc.).
- In addition, the Berea College Seal may not appear on or be included as a part of any toy or game item (e.g. playing cards, balls, etc.).

The Office of the President may, at its discretion, veto the production or sale of any item using the Berea College Seal. Items produced without approval of the Office of the President must be discarded at the expense of the department, program or individual responsible. Please consult with the Associate Vice President for Marketing & Communication before beginning production of any item using the Berea College Seal.

The Offical College Seal:

Obsolete Logos and Graphics

Berea College has retired all former symbols or graphic marks that represented the College prior to the version of the logo presented in this Brand & Graphics Standards Manual. As consistency and clarity are vital to maintaining the Berea College brand, the following graphics/logos should no longer be used to represent the College. An exception has been made for pre-existing "permanent" applications such as bronze plaques, architectural features, sesquicentennial merchandise, etc.

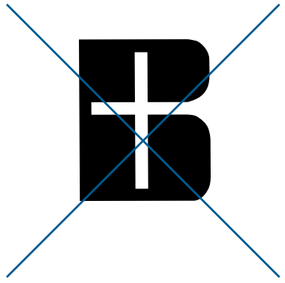

Athletics Logos and Graphics

Berea College uses a separate set of logos and graphic elements for its athletics brand. These marks are reserved specifically for and maintained by Berea College Athletics.

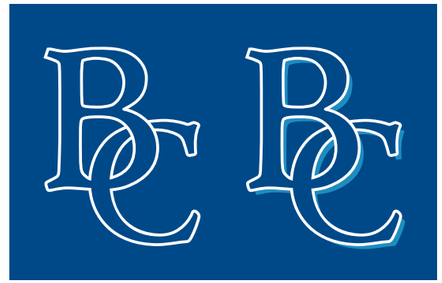

Color

Since subtle differences in color can impact the way an identity is perceived, it is important that the Berea College logo appears in Berea Blue whenever possible. The official logo can also be printed in Black or in White when reversed-out of Berea Blue or Black (see examples below).

Color Processes

Reproduction (copying and/or printing) processes vary widely. Assuring consistent color across all applications requires using a different color formula based on the process.

The four commonly used color processes, known as “color indications,” are: process color, spot color, hex color and RGB color. Hex or RGB will suit most use-case-scenarios.

Process color is the mix of the four primary ink colors used in four-color (or full color) process. These colors, referred to by the acronym CMYK (Cyan, Magenta, Yellow and Black), are used in combination to create a range of colors within the viewable spectrum.

Spot color is also referred to as a Pantone® color (sometimes referred to as PMS for Pantone Matching System®) and is achieved through the use of an ink that is custom-blended to look identical each time it is applied.

Hex color refers to a color in the web-safe palette. Regardless of the website, Hex-colors are web-specific colors that assure consistency regardless of computer or monitor used. RGB color is similar to Hex in terms of function but is represented with numeric values. The correct process, spot, hex color and RGB colors are found under each of the primary, secondary and accent colors.

Palette

Berea College’s graphic design staff members employ a palette utilizing primarily blue and white. However, there are additional “accent” colors that may also be used sparingly to support design. The specifications for these colors are as follows:

Berea Blue

Typography

A font is a set of printable or displayable text characters in a specific style and size. The type design for a set of fonts is the typeface and variations of this design form the typeface family. Thus, Helvetica is a typeface family, Helvetica italic is a typeface and Helvetica italic 10-point is a font. In practice, font and typeface are often used without much precision, sometimes interchangeably.

In typography, there are two primary types of typefaces–serif typefaces and sans serif typefaces.

A serif is a small line attached to the end of a stroke in a letter or symbol. A typeface with serifs is called a serif typeface (or serifed typeface). Popular serif fonts include Times New Roman, Courier, and Palatino.

A typeface without serifs is called sans serif, from the French "sans," meaning "without." Popular sans serif fonts include Helvetica, Myriad, Arial, and Geneva.

The following typefaces are recommended for their legibility, integration with the College identity and brand consistency. These typefaces can be downloaded and installed on any College computer (click here to fonts for download).

Serif Typefaces

Because of their superior readability, serif typefaces are traditionally used for print, especially for long-form text. Berea College generally employs serif typefaces following this standard and also employs a serif typeface for its logo. Adobe Garamond Pro should be the primary serif typeface used on materials printed by or for the College or any sub-set of the College.

Proxima Sera

Proxima Sera is a hybrid design, combining characteristics of old style and modern serif typefaces into something new that is clean and highly readable. While its proportions and range of weights are designed to harmonize with Proxima Nova, it stands alone just as well. is recommended for body text/copy in printed formats at a suggested point size of 12.

Typography

San Serif Typefaces

Traditionally (due to readability), sans serif typefaces are reserved in print for headlines, tags, quotes, etc., and digitally Proxima Nova and Proxima Nova Condensed should be the primary sans serif typefaces used on materials printed by or for the College or any sub-set of the College.

Proxima Nova

Proxima Nova is a hybrid "humanist" and geometric sans serif typeface. It was optimized for print, web and mobile interfaces, and has excellent legibility characteristics in its letterforms. Berea College reserves the use of Proxima Nova largely for digital body text/copy, but it is also used sparingly for headlines, tags and even "display" in print. It has a large variety of styles available, a few of which are represented below.

Proxima Nova Regular

Proxima Nova Condensed

Proxima Nova Condensed is a version of Proxima Nova intended to save space yet still benefit from the characteristics of its parent typeface. It is also available in three styles (represented below). It should never be used for body copy, as its density makes it more difficult to read. Berea College reserves its use for headlines in both print and digital media.

Alternative Typefaces

The College recognizes the need for flexibility in visual communication and the difficulty of acquiring specific, licensed typefaces in all work environments. To address these concerns, acceptable alernatives are outlined below. These typefaces are installed and available to use on most modern computers.

Alternative Serif Typeface

Times New Roman

Times New Roman is a common typeface in book and general printing. Through distribution with Microsoft products and as a standard computer font, it has become one of the most widely used typefaces in history. It is available as a standard typeface on all contemporary operating systems.

Verdana

Like Times New Roman, Verdana is a commonly used typeface. Verdana was originally designed to be readable at small sizes on low-resolution computer screens, but has seen much wider use since its creation by Microsoft in 1996. It is now available as a standard typeface on all contemporary operating systems.

Brand Applications

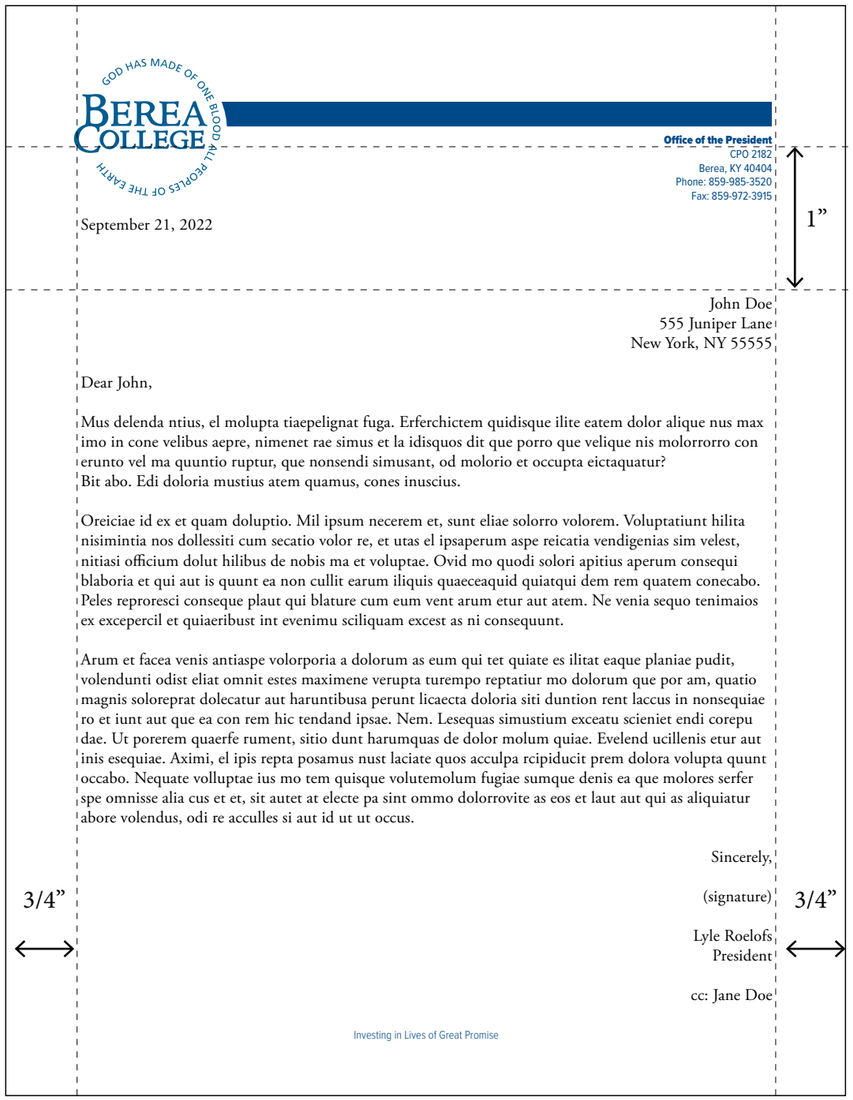

Letterhead and Business Collateral

All College departments and programs will use the following design for letterhead, envelopes and business cards. College Printing Services will typeset addresses and other information unique to each department, program or staff. All business collateral must adhere to the following design if College funds are paying for the paper and printing.

Formal Letter Format

Setup guidelines shown in the sample formal letter are for printing formal correspondence on Berea College letterhead. A digital formal letterhead template in Microsoft Word format is available upon request from Printing Services.

Photography and Other Creative Images

Print or web-based projects designed by MC or Printing Services will use photographic images (or other images, such as infographics) owned by Berea College.

Projects designed by other entities affiliated with Berea College are strongly encouraged to use photographic images owned by Berea College (available from MC and/or Berea College Library Archives).

Photography not owned by Berea College is owned by an individual, organization or corporation unless it is identified as in the public domain. A photograph is intellectual property and the person who created it owns the copyright. As intellectual property, rights to use, profit from or modify a photograph are potentially complicated. At a minimum, written permission from the owner of the image and/or payment of royalties is required prior to the use of photographic images or other creative images. Photographs found on the internet or social media generally are not "free" and their use is prohibited without the permission referenced previously.

Brand & Graphics Standards Frequently Asked Questions

1. What purpose are these standards intended to serve?

There are multiple purposes for these standards. First, they are meant to illustrate and explain the correct ways to use the Berea College name, logos and brand elements. These standards give the specific information needed for the majority of uses of the College's logo and brand elements. Second, protecting them from misuse or improper use is important for legal and public relations reasons. Third, improper usage ultimately weakens Berea College brand. Fourth, correct usage of the College name, logo and brand elements helps increase awareness of Berea College and its activities.

2. Are the rules in this Manual suggested or mandatory?

Yes. The rules are mandatory. An organization's identity, logo and brand elements are viable only when used correctly, e.g., Coca-Cola, Toyota, McDonald's, Red Cross or the U.S. Department of Agriculture–all have very specific rules for using their logos and protecting their brands in very specific ways. Berea College does, too.

Marketing and Communications holds responsibility for Berea College's brand identity and has the authority to enforce proper use across campus and for external groups.

3. Are there any exceptions?

No. The Berea College logo and brand elements will only remain viable if used correctly. Improper usage of the brand elements weakens Berea College's brand identity.

4. What is the best way to be sure I am reproducing a logo accurately?

Follow the instructions in the Brand & Graphics Standards Manual and always download the original files that are available on the MC website.

5. Who do I contact if I have additional questions?

Contact Berea College's Office of Marketing & Communications at mc@berea.edu or 859-985-3018. For more information about printing, contact Printing Services at PrintingServices@berea.edu or 859-985-3166.
